

Canned Ocean

The name of this project is canned ocean. My artwork project is about the conflict between sea animals and recycling trash. The description of this project is about two sides of the ocean itself. one side is where the sea animals are living, and the other is where everything is dead. The dead side also shows the characters that are based on trash. Some parts show the characters that were acting normal and others fighting each other for a reason. I chose this idea because I thought that show the conflict between sea animals and trashes would be beneficial to persuade people to avoid oceanic pollution. This project means that it lets the sea animals have enough courage to survive and work hard for there lives before the trashes makes them sick. My ideas and the topic itself did inspired me because I want to persuade people that killing sea animals by throwing trash in the ocean will cause a big dilemma to the beauty of the mother earth and the view of sea. This project really means to me because i want to save the sea animals and there are some of my favorite sea animals in there.
